Criteria for Iowa Invitational Team Selection

Participation in the Iowa Invitational Tournament in late February is a great opportunity to begin preparing for Nationals, but it is a costly trip from both a time and financial perspective. For this reason, the Family Life Ministries Bible Quizzing Leadership Team will offer invitations for up to 14 quizzers to travel as official representatives at the competition. The selection process will seek to reward quizzers for the effort and results they have exhibited through five regular season quiz meets along with the Turkey and Snowflake tournaments.

Like the selection process for the creation of teams for Nationals, invitations to Iowa will utilize the same metrics. These include quizzing performance during the regular season - both unadjusted and weighted for competition level, performance during the monthly level quiz - scored both objectively and subjectively, and performance during local tournaments - both unadjusted and weighted for competition level. The leadership committee, or a subcommittee of it, will review the data from the first 5 months of competition before invitations are extended in mid-January. Alternates will also be selected if a quizzing is unable or unwilling to participate.
